COOK CO. HAS
NO MONEY FOR
INSULL CASESFormer Head of Great
Utilities Empire
Can't Be Found

BULLETIN —(AP)—
Toronto, Ont., Oct. 6 —(AP)—
Edward Bayly, Deputy Attorney
General of Ontario, was retained
today as private counsel by John Hampton, Assistant States Attorney of Cook County, Ill., in extradition proceeding against Martin Insull, former public utilities magnate, who is under indictment for embezzlement and larceny.

Mr. Hampton, who said this morning he had been unable to induce Mr. Insull to waive extradition, explained that he would now lay his evidence before a County Judge in Canada and ask a provisional warrant for Mr. In-sull's arrest.

He said that if the application
is successful he will arrest Insull
immediately.

BULLETIN —(AP)—
Washington, Oct. 6 —(AP)—
White House and State Department officials said early this afternoon they had not received application for a presidential warrant to be used in the effort to return Martin Insull, utilities
magnate, from Canada to Chicago, Illinois.

In any extradition proceeding a presidential warrant is required,
with the names of both the President and the Secretary of State and the seal of the United States
a legal necessity.

Theodore Joslin, one of Mr.
Hoover's secretaries, said the President had not signed such a warrant in connection with the Insull case, adding that he knew
of no application for such a paper.
State Department officials gave a similar reply to newspapermen.

Chicago, Oct. 6—(AP)—An intimation that unless the Cook county board voted today for expenses
of extradition of Samuel and Martin Insull that the matter might come to the attention of the grand jury was given today by State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

Balked twice by refusal of the board to grant him funds to push the inquiry, Swanson telephoned Emmett Wheelan, president of the county board, asking that the board be called into session to vote $10,000 estimated necessary
for extradition proceedings.

Wheelan replied that the board
had no funds available.

"The grand jury voted these indictments," Swanson told Whea-lan, "and maybe the members of that jury are interested in seeking the cases prosecuted."

Next Step Uncertain
Swanson refused to elaborate his conversation and did not announce what his next step would be in the event the board again denied him
funds.

The Insull brothers were indicted
on charges of larceny and embezzlement as a result of the collapse

Republicans To Bombard Over Air—

Chicago, Oct. 6—(AP)—The Republican National Committee
today said arrangements had been made to "wage one of the greatest political battles in history over the air."

The committee made public a statement saying the decision to do this has been prompted by
"the telegrams of congratulations
on the President Hoover broadcast from Des Moines, received from radio fans all over the United States."

"The booking of Calvin Coolidge for October 11 at 8:30 P. M. (E. S. T.) is a high point in an intensive Republican drive

said.

from 3:15 to 3:45 P. M. (E. S. T.)

tomorrow, addressing women
listeners in particular.

DAIRY FARMERS'
PLANT BOMBED
THIS MORNINGNew Cooperative Depot at Burlington
Wis. Destroyed

Burlington, Wis., Oct. 6—(AP)— Five men early today invaded the new $25,000 milk receiving plant of the Burlington Cooperative Milk
Association, kidnaped a watchman,
and destroyed the building by exploding two bombs. The watchman was unhurt.

The blast, about 1 A. M., shattered windows within a radius of 10
blocks of the plant.

About an hour later, John Eisen-bart, 55, the watchman, appeared at the police station. He said five men accosted him with revolvers in the building.

The men set two bombs, he said,
and then rushed him to their automobile outside. They bound his feet and hands with rope and sped
away with him.

Firemen Hunted Body
Before the car reached the city limits, Eisenbart said, the explosions occurred. The men took him about a mile outside the city and dumped him out. Eisenbart worked his bonds loose and returned to the scene of the wrecked building to find firemen seeking his body amid the debris.

The new plant was opened September 22 by dairy farmers supplying milk to the Chicago Pure Milk Association. The farmers previously had been collecting their milk at privately-owned plants here but started their cooperatively-owned venture in efforts to cut mid-dlemen's profits to enable them to make more on their product.

On Borrowed Money
The Chicago Association loaned
the local farmers most of the money
necessary for installation of machinery in the plant and the farmers intended repaying the money
through saving effected in the cooperative venture.

Eisenbart said he was unable to give a good description either of the car or of the five men. He saw none of them before, he said.

Exiled Mexican
Prelate In U. S.

Laredo, Texas, Oct. 6—(AP)—
An exile from his native land for the second time, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Flores, aged Catholic prelate, crossed the international boundary into the United States
early today.

The papal delegate was expelled
from Mexico by order of President Belardo Rodriguez as a "pernicious foreigner" as an outgrowth of his comments on the recent encyclical
by Pope Pius XI which discussed
the situation of the church in Mexico.

Apparently in good spirits and exhibiting no fatigue from his hurry trip across northern Mexico, the Archbishop arrived in Laredo at 12:15 A. M., accompanied by two Mexican secret service men.
The Archbishop left Mexico City
in a special plane Tuesday, accompanied by representatives of the Mexican government, but when bad flying weather was encountered the plane stopped at Tampico and the journey to the American border
was continued by train.

CONVICTS TELL
OF BRUTALITY OF
GUARDS AT CAMPUnbelievable Cruelty Is Alleged At Florida
Murder Trial

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 6—(AP)— William Roberts, a convict who served in Sunbeam prison camp at the time Arthur Mallefert, New Jersey youth died, related today at the murder trial of two former guards how Mallefert, naked, had been locked in a sweat box, his arms confined by a heavy barrel
placed over his body and fastened
from the shoulders by boards and straps.

Mallefert was allowed to walk
about the prison camp yard all that day but at night "he was placed in the sweat box, barrel and all," the convict testified.

"The next day," continued Roberts, "it was raining. The box was opened and the barrel was rolled out. Mallefert rolled over but was allowed to right himself."

Crushed Way Out
That day Mallefert gnawed his way out of the barrel the witness said, and jumped the fence. He was captured.

The defendants, Solomon Higginbotham and George W. Courson, listened intently as the convict
proceeded with his story.

"I heard Higginbotham say that he would rather kill Mallefert than eat," Roberts continued.

Mallefert died of strangulation,
probably caused by a chain around
his neck, Dr. R. R. Killinger, County Medical Agent, who performed
an autopsy on the body, testified yesterday. Dr. Killinger was the first witness called by the state.

The physician said his examination of the convict's body showed
he had nothing to eat for at least 12 hours and probably 24 hours before death. Only a small quantity of water was in the stomach, the doctor said.

Body Was Bruised
Testifying between barrages of objection by defense counsel, Dr.
Killinger said he judged from Mail-fert's body that the convict was in a weakened condition, that there was congestion in the lungs indicating a mild condition of pneumonia
and that there were numerous bruises about the body, legs and neck. The neck bruises he said apparently were caused by a chain.

The state charges Mallefert died
of strangulation in the prison
sweatbox, chained by his neck to an overhead beam and with heavy wooden stocks on his feet. Courson and Higginbotham explained at previous court hearings that they had placed Mallefert in the sweat-
box because he attempted to escape
on several occasions, was unruly
and refused to work.

Defense Claims Suicide
The defense contends the convict committed suicide by swinging his weight on the neck chain rather than serve his sentence of nine years for a robbery in Daytona Beach. He was 19 years old.

Mallefert's mother and brother,
who came here from Westfield, N. J.,
were among spectators at the trial.
The jury was completed yesterday after two and a half days,
and testimony was started. More than a score of convicts, called to the court room on the first day of the trial garbed in prison stripes,
waited to be called as state witnesses.

Courson, the other former guard
on trial, was described as saying he intended to keep the New Jersey boy in the sweat box "until Christmas—if he ain't dead."

Sometime later a trusty called Courson and said "Captain—it's done," Roberts related, and the guards ran up to find Mallefert dead.

Another statement he attributed to Higginbotham as Mallefert
was placed in the box was:
"That chain ain't tight enough."

Rockefeller Gift
To U. S. Presented

Chicago, Oct. 6—(AP)—International House, dedicated to "ideals of world peace and mutual understanding" today stood as the newest addition to the University of Chicago.

John D. Rockefeller III, acting for his father, formally presented the building to the University last night. It will house students from all parts of the globe.

The dedicatory address was given by Dr. Raymond B. Fosdick, chairman of the Rockefeller Foundation
on the Extension of International Houses, who asserted that progress
and standardization soon will wipe out political and economic nationalism.

Curiosity Almost Fatal To Hunter

Boone, Iowa, Oct. 6—(AP)—The squirrel Oscar R. Pearson shot at and hit failed to come tumbling down as he expected, so he climbed
the tree to see if he couldn't shake
it loose.

Two other squirrel hunters came along, not noticing Pearson was in the tree, one of them blazed away.

Doctors picked the shot pellets
from his back and announced his wounds, while numerous, were not dangerous.

DIXON AUTOIST
HITS AND KILLS
DEER LAST EVEAnimal Ran Onto Rd.
In Front Of Car On Blackhawk Trail

Lee Richards, 300 West Everett street, has reason to lay claim to the hunting championship of northern Illinois for without arms, ammunition or even a hunting license
he bagged a 122-pound deer last night at 8 o'clock on the Black Hawk Trail about three miles south of Oregon. He was returning home from Rockford in his automobile and near the building
which formerly housed the "Chuck's Inn" roadhouse, a doe ran across the road in front of his car.

The left front fender struck the animal, whirling it around, the rear of the car hitting it a second time and killing it instantly. The force of the impact almost threw the car into the ditch. Richards stopped and drove back to ascertain exactly what he had struck.

His first belief being that he had hit a calf and his surprise increased by leaps and bounds when he discovered that it was a deer.

Loading the carcass into his car
he drove to the police station,
where he related his experience to Chief of Police Van Bibber and sought information as to legal disposition of the animal. The chief telephoned State Conservation Inspector Charles Meyers at Oregon,
who asked that the carcass be carefully examined for possible bullet wounds and authorized the return of the deer to Mr. Richards.

The carcass was taken to the LeFevre
market where it was dressed and placed in cold storage last night.
The animal is thought to have
strayed from the Lowden Smisssippi farm, where it has been reported that a number of deer are roaming in the heavy timber.

One Man Under Sus-

Monmouth Woman

Monmouth, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)—
Working secretly, Warren county
officials today continued their search for the slayer of Mrs. Alice Boyer, 50, whose body with a bullet wound in the head was found in a well on her farm.

Sheriff Fred Porter said one man was under suspicion, but refused to disclose his name pending
further investigation.

A coroner's jury yesterday concluded that Mrs. Boyer had been murdered, but declined to fix responsibility. Mrs. Boyer disappeared September 6 and her body was found Monday in an abandoned
well, weighted down with an anvil.

Arvid Boyer, 20, a son of the deceased, was questioned by sheriffs
of both Warren and Knox counties, but was not arrested. He was not called upon to testify at the inquest.

Sheriff Lou Wilson of Knox county said that the son did not report the disappearance of his mother for five days and that he had admitted borrowing a rifle
from a neighbor a day before she was last seen.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 6—(AP)—The body of Jean MacIntyre, 24, of Welland, Ont., second cook on the Canadian freighter, John J. Bolland, Jr., which sank in Lake Erie, 20 miles east of here yesterday, was

Meanwhile, Coast Guards from
the Erie, Buffalo and Dunkirk, N.Y.,

waters of the lake for the three other missing members of the crew.

Fifteen men roe logs and a life-boat to the beach and safety when
the Boland, her rudder disabled,

certificate of honor.

POLICE IN DEMAND
Members of the city police department are in great demand as actors in home talent plays and this morning Chief Van Bibber was interviewed at the station by a producer who sought not only his services but those of Officers John Bohnstedt and Richard Pomeroy as members of the cast of a forthcoming play. Both officers were highly recommended by the chief as being capable of performing the difficult parts to which they were to be assigned but he personally declined,
stating that the pressure of his duties required all of his time. It was later announced that the producer was seeking his stars in other circles, the officers having already declined to be lured by the spotlights.

Kincaid Is Scene of New Violence In State
Miners' Warfare

Kincaid, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)— Christian county emerged today as the scene of the latest violence in the Illinois coal miners wage war
as authorities investigated the reported firing of several shots on National Guardsmen patrolling
mine areas here.

Captain Carl Meacham, in charge of troops in the county, refused to deny or verify the firing of shots but citizens sated several shots were fired on the Guardsmen last night. No one was injured, reports said. The sheriff's office at nearby Taylorville refused to make a statement.

Captain Meacham said his report
had been mailed to Adj. Gen. Carlos Black at Springfield and that General Black would make public details.

Expose Terrorist Plot
Tension increased in Fulton county as authorities said they had evidence of a plot to terrorize
working miners. Additional troops were rushed to Canton last night.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Ben Harter
said information was received that insurgent miners planned an offensive of intimidation and forceful reason more troops were brought into the county.

Already, Harter said, scores of Fulton county officials and mine
employees had received threats,
mostly by telephone, and guards
had been assigned at homes of the officials and workers.

The firing at Kincaid was reported shortly after parents or striking high school students concluded a meeting to discuss the possible return of their children to school. The students walked out of classes Monday to protest the purchase of coal by the board coming under the $5 basic wage scale approved by the United Mine Workers Union. Strikers, mainly adherents of the newly organized Progressive Mines Union, oppose
the new scale supplanting the $8.10
basic wage terminated last March.

Troops Guard Mines
Guardsmen dashed to the home
of Andy Sprague, a miner at St.
David, last night after he reported
two men appeared, stripped scenes
from his windows, and shouted
threats. The men were not found.

A detachment was sent from Canton to Farmington to investigate reports that strikers attempted to create a disturbance there
last night. Farmington police said
there was a meeting of miners but that the city was quiet.

Delegates attending the constitution convention of the Progressive organization at Gillespie last night heard a report from its committee charged with negotiating a new wage scale with operators in a parley at Edwardsville. Neither the wage scale agreed upon by the organization nor the outcome of the Edwardsville meeting were made public.

Officials of the Peabody Coal Company announced their No. 58
mine at Hewittville will start hoisting coal Monday. They requested one of their four Christian county mines two weeks ago under protection of troops and now have virtually a full working force.

No trouble is anticipated at Hewittville, National Guard officials said.

109 PICKETS JAILED
McAlester, Okla., Oct. 6—(AP)—
After a night in state's prison cells,
109 striking coal miners, arrested
for picketing of the Little Bolen
mine in defiance of a district Court injunction, faced prosecution today
on felony charges of conspiracy
against the state.

James Springer, Governor W. H.
Murray's special prosecutor, declared he intended to stop picketing in the McAlester mining district if it meant arresting all of the approximately 2,000 workers.

The 109 were marched to the prison last night by state operatives and sang "We're in the Army
Now" and "The Prisoners' Song."
They were taken to the prison because the county jail already was filled with 32 pickets arrested the previous day.

Floods, Storms And Cold Strike Mexico

Mexico City, Oct. 6—(AP)—While
wintry blasts sent the temperature
down to 36 on the Mexican plateau
last night, high winds, lightning,
rains, hail and floods struck elsewhere in the republic causing six known deaths and heavy property damage.

Four were killed by lightning at Guadalupe, a school teacher was drowned near San Geronimo, Oaxaca, and a child was killed by the winds at Tampico.

Unusually severe floods threatened half a dozen towns in the state of Chihuahua while two days of heavy hail ruined all crops around
Villa Matamoros, in that state.

Il Duce Is Fined
25 Cents: He Paid

Rome, Oct. 6—(AP)—Premier Mussolini smilingly paid a fine of five lire (about 25 cents) today at the national rifle tournament.

He fired a military rifle 24 times,
each shot hitting the target and
twelve clipping the bullseye.

But as he turned from firing he failed to open the breech of the rifle and Secretary Battistoni said:
"I am sorry, Your Excellency, but you are fined five lire."

Rev. Dunlap Guest At Senneff Home

Rev. Irving Dunlap who has been a missionary in China for more than twenty years, paid a short visit to Dixon friends Wednesday, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Senneff, at luncheon and dinner. He motored to Naperville today where he will visit for a few days. One of Rev. Dunlap's daughters attends college in Naperville. Rev. Dunlap was the pastor at the church in Dixon before becoming a missionary and his old acquaintances here were very happy to greet him again. He is driving a fine new Studebaker automobile which some of his American friends have given for his use while on his furlough in the United States. He says it seems fine to have an automobile to drive in, in contrast to walking or riding a miniature Chinese horse. Rev. Dunlap's host of friends here hope that he can come back and pay them a longer visit while he is on his furlough, which will extend until August 1933, unless some emergency arises at the mission field which he serves.

Dr. B. D. Hart's Birthday Honored

A stag party last evening honored the birthday anniversary of Dr. B. D. Hart at the Dixon State Hospital. It was a happy surprise to the Doctor, the guests being Dr. Warren G. Murray and staff, and Dr. Hart's brother, Fred Hart, of Chicago. Pinochle was played until a late hour. Then Mrs. Hart, assisted by Annabelle Miller, niece of the Doctor, Mrs. Marcellus, and Mrs. H. C. Hart, served delicious refreshments. Decorations in the present beautiful autumn colors with which Dame Nature is decking herself, were employed. The entire evening was much enjoyed by all present and Dr. Hart received many felicitations on his anniversary.

Economy In The Balanced Diet

Many a mother faces the problem of supplying an adequate and wholesome diet from limited resources. When every penny of the food-dollar must provide maximum nourishment, no better investment can be made than in the grain products.

Cereals, whole-grained or refined, rolled, cracked, granulated, "puffed," and flaked, ready to serve and pre-cooked, are offered in infinite variety. This wealth of grain products is not only the most economical food available but, for the majority of persons the most nutritious.

Extended investigations in dietary plans have shown that cereal foods costing "only 17 per cent of the total expenditure for food, furnished 40 per cent of the fuel value, 25 per cent of the protein and 18 per cent of the phosphorus compounds." Dr. Walter H. Eddy, in commenting on the value of cereals, says "Children are busy engines requiring much fuel food." Since cereals are relatively cheap and very rich in calories, which furnish "fuel," they "may provide a means of lowering living costs and at the same time actually improve diets."

Watch The Calories

Mary Swarts Rose also points out that "a study of the dietaries of several groups of children, all having an excellent supply of milk and none being very low in vegetables, has shown that the commonest dietary defect is shortage of total calories, sometimes merely through a very limited intake of cereal foods."

In addition to their high fuel and energy value, mineral salts and vitamin A and B are present in whole grained cereals.

Further experiments have made clear the importance of the supplementary foods in a high cereal diet. The choice of other foods must be correct to make the entire diet balanced and adequate. Milk contains most of the factors missing in cereals, so if you serve plenty of milk and cream with your child's cereal, you may be assured that his diet is not lacking in the essentials of nutrition.

Use a variety of cereals. The same breakfast morning after morning soon becomes unpopular. But during cold weather there is no danger of deterioration and a different cereal can be served every morning at no extra expense.

Well cooked cereal served with plenty of rich milk contributes many calories of high nutritive value as well as ash constituents and vitamins to a child's daily dietary.

Ioder-Sweetnam Wedding Wednes.

On Wednesday, October 5th, Miss Eleanor M. Ioder, daughter of Mrs. Mary Ioder, 210 Dixon avenue, and Wilbur S. Sweetnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sweetnam of Peoria, Ill., were united in marriage at Elgin, Ill., at 11 o'clock by the Rev. J. H. Odgers of the Methodist church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. William

F. Everett, friends of the couple. The bride wore an attractive beet-root satin crepe dress with accessories to harmonize. Her traveling costume was a modish green suit.

The bride is an accomplished young woman of sweet personality. She is a graduate of Coppins Business College and for the past three years has been a valued employee as stenographer at the City National Bank.

Mr. Sweetnam, who is a capable and sterling young man, is a partner in the South Side Hardware Company of Peoria.

After spending a few days in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Sweetnam will take a motor trip through Canada, Niagara Falls and various points of interest in the east. On their return they will make their home at 243 Sherman avenue, Peoria.

Their many friends extend to them best wishes for their happiness.

Miss Helen Steacy Is Happily Honored

Last evening Miss Helen Steacy who is soon to become the bride of John Slain, was happily surprised by sixteen girl friends who planned and carried out a miscellaneous shower for her at her home. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Merle Lightner and Miss Nova Kellar and the surprise was a great success.

Five hundred was a feature of the evening. Mrs. John Kellar was awarded the favor for high honors and Mrs. Agnes Brookner received the consolation favor.

Miss Steacy was given a delightful miscellaneous shower and she received a number of useful and beautiful gifts for the home-to-be, with the best wishes.

A delicious luncheon was served the decorations in the Halloween motif and colors being most appropriate.

But After All Is Said and Done, We'll Bet He Pays the Bill

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A considerable number of married men and their wives, and the merchants where those wives run bills, will follow with interest the action of Clarence Buddington, Kelland, the writer, in the matter of a bill of $3,313 which he proposes not to pay if he can help it.

The bill is from Hattie Carnegie, Inc., dressmaker, and purports to be for purchases made by Mrs. Kelland between Feb. 27, 1931, and the same day in 1932.

Mr. Lelland argues in a Supreme Court action which the concern instituted to collect the amount of the bill, that he is not liable for its payment because the articles purchased were not "necessaries."

But further than that, he sets forth that something should be done to discourage firms from permitting women to run large bills in the belief that the husbands have the money and can pay them.

His fight, he states, is against the practice of "playing" women to buy goods they do not need.

Mrs. Kellar, supporting her husband, stated that the purchases were made with the understanding that she was to be billed, and not her husband. She added that "she thought at the time" she would be able to make payment, but that "events have altered conditions."

She said efforts to arrange payment by installments had been unsuccessful.

Miss Helen Menken Files for Bankruptcy

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Helen Menken, actress, has filed a petition in bankruptcy to save herself, her counsel said today, from constant harassment by bill collectors. Liabilities of $20,000 are listed, chiefly for wearing apparel. No mention is made of assets.

Her attorney, David Haar, said Miss Menken wished to go on with her career but was bothered by collectors. "I advised her to go into bankruptcy as an immediate measure of relief," he said. "However, she will pay every dollar of her liabilities."

Miss Menken was married last June to Dr. Henry Templeton Smith.

AN EDITORIAL

(Chicago Daily News)

For the sake of experimenting with a change in the administration of national affairs—

CAN WE AFFORD TO WASTE A YEAR?

The news of the outcome in Maine immediately resulted in a loss, through lowered commodity prices, of $100,000,000 to the farmers of the United States. A similar reaction on the stock exchange cost the security owners of the country $500,000,000. That is only symptomatic of what would happen if on Nov. 8 the country determined to change political leaders at a time when the depression had spent itself and unmistakable signs of recovery were on the horizon.

Gov. Roosevelt has declared that the present protective tariff is a GHOSTLY fraud. If he means what he says, his statement can only foreshadow prompt revision of the tariff. It does not require a long memory to recall what ALWAYS has happened to business and to employment when revision of the tariff was undertaken. It is INEVITABLE that under such conditions every form of business affected in any way by the policy of protection should curtail to the utmost until it knows definitely what the future tariff policy is going to be. No human reaction could be predicted with greater assurance than this.

With the money panic phase of the depression past and more banks reopening than are closing, with the evil of money-hoarding stopped, the outflow of gold transformed to an inflow of the precious metal, with bank deposits going up instead of down, with the price of all sound securities increasing and commodity prices on a slow upward trend, there remain two chief objectives to be attained in the struggle back to prosperity. The first of these is reemployment of the idle by industry, and the second is the restoration of prosperity on the farms. Although the latter is immediately and tremendously affected by the accomplishment of the first of these two purposes, the farm problem is less directly affected by tariff revision than are industry and the men and women employed by industry.

Shall the millions of men and women now out of work and suffering acute privations because of lack of income be compelled to wait another twelve months while the country experiments with a new leader who thus far has shown neither an adequate understanding of the magnitude of the problems to be met nor anything that remotely approaches a program for meeting them?

That is the question which both the leaders in industry and business and those employed, or seeking employment by business and industry, must ask themselves. The policies of the Hoover administration designed to meet the present crisis are known. Most of them have been given effect in legislation, and are new in operation. There is not the slightest vestige of doubt in the mind of any man or woman as to what the Hoover administration, if retained in power, will do with regard to commerce and industry. No man can safely predict what the opposition would do if given power. We do know, although the election is only forty-nine days off, that Gov. Roosevelt has not yet enunciated a program of economic recovery.

We do know that under the leadership of Garner there was proposed the enactment of a bonus bill which would have cost in immediate cash $2,300,000,000. We do know that Garner tried to put over a huge pork-barrel bill, also requiring billions of dollars of additional taxes. We do know that every fantastic project which attempted inflation of the currency and cheapening of the dollar had the support of a majority of Garner's followers in that branch of congress which in the last session was controlled by Mr. Garner.

Under such circumstances how can any thoughtful man or woman fail to recognize that a change in the political and economic leadership this fall would mean not less than a year's postponement of the return to normal conditions of business and employment?

ITALY'S SETS A TAX EXAMPLE.

The Italian government seems to have hit upon a new scheme in the matter of levying income taxes—a scheme which, while open to possible abuses, nevertheless has something to commend it.

Mussolini's council of ministers has approved a decree providing that tax assessors, in estimating a taxpayer's ability to pay, may go beyond his tax return and base their assessments on his scale of living.

In other words, demonstrating that you have a moderate income would do you no good at all if you lived on a palatial estate, operated a string of motor cars and maintained a great staff of servants. Your lawyer's cleverness at concealing your sources of income wouldn't help you. You'd pay taxes on the basis of what you spent, as well as what you earned.

Such a system could be abused, of course. But doesn't it sound as if it had a bit of good, common sense in it?

Germany cannot be expected to take part in negotiations with regard to measures of disarmament until it is established that the solution which may be found is also to apply to Germany.—Foreign Minister von Neurath of Germany.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The man who ran the tin shop cried, "Hey, Tinymites, come on inside. I'll let you watch me work a while, and make things out of tin."

"A good boy never interferes. My pounding, though, may hurt your ears. However, if you'll be real good, you're welcome to walk in."

"Oh, we'll be very good," said one. "And watching you will be real fun. We came here on a big, flat car to see what we could see."

"We travel 'round from place to place. It's always been a merry chase." Then, to the other Times, he cried, "Come, lads follow me."

They walked inside the old tin shop. Strange tin things made the Times stop and catch their breath. "My, this is fine," said Duncy, with a grin.

"You must be quite a clever man. From what I see, guess you can make anything you want to make right out of bits of tin."

The man worked for a little while and then to Scouty, with a smile, said "I know where you lads can see much stranger sights than this."

"If you will cross a nearby stream, you'll find a spot that's like a dream. I'll tell you, frankly, it's a place you really shouldn't miss."

Out of the stream the Times ran. Said Windy, "Tell us how we can cross over to the other side. There is no boat in sight."

"I'll build a tin man," said their friend. "And then on him you can depend, to carry you right over. Everything will be all right."

He dragged out lots and lots of tin and said, "Right now I will begin." The Times watched him work. It was a funny sight to see.

A body shortly was cut out and then the bunch heard Duncy shout "What funny, curling legs he has. A fine tin man he'll be."

(The tin man is finished in the next story.)

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Christian in the Family

By WM. E. GILROY

The life of two homes is presented to us in the study of this lesson—the home of Jesus in Nazareth, where he grew up with his parents, and the home of Martha and Mary and their brother, Lazarus, which was to be in a sense the home of the Master in trying periods of his later life. The two passages emphasize two aspects of home life, and one of them emphasizes particularly some of the problems of home life.

The reference to the childhood of Jesus is brief, but it is effective and revealing. "Jesus grew and waxed strong, filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him." What could give a more wonderful story of a great childhood than these simple words? And if we believe with any reality in the earthly life of Jesus, and that his divinity was a divinity manifested in a life that was truly human, we must understand what could only have been the nature of the home life and parentage of Jesus.

We have, in the portion presented for our lesson, one phase of this home life in the story of the pilgrimage to Jerusalem. The parents of Jesus were devout. They had brought him up in the wholesome atmosphere of response to the high and true things in their religion. So it was that in this later childhood of Jesus, when he was gradually appreciating the meaning of things, the record is that "Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men." That also is a remarkable description of a boy of 12.

In the glimpses that we have into the home in Bethany, where Martha and Mary lived, we enter into the realm of home problems. The home is not simply a happy and desirable place, where everything arranges itself. It is a place where there are very definite duties involving labors and relationships. It is a place where neglect and inefficiency are very serious, and it is a place in which ideals are tested.

We must not today judge Mary and Martha by the paucity of the record. We must avoid taking the part of Mary, who seemed to be willing to let Martha do most of the drudgery; and we must equally be careful not to take the part of Martha, who seemed to have much justice on her side in claiming that there were certain tasks and duties that had to be fulfilled regardless of higher adjustments and values.

Probably both Mary and Martha were right. There might have been a little more consideration on the part of one, and more vision on the part of the other. Jesus, apparently sympathized with Mary, because he felt that Martha was rather too much troubled and anxious. Probably that was exactly the case.

It is one thing to perform necessary tasks well, but it is quite another thing to become so fussy and careful about a home that the very contentment of the home are destroyed.

It is possible to become so engrossed in the outward work and maintenance of the home that there is forgetfulness of what the home is for. After all, it is primarily a place to live, and a place in which to seek the highest values of personal love and relationship. Everything in the home ought to minister to these things.

DAILY HEALTH

ANGINA PECTORIS

Angina pectoris is a disease of the heart characterized by the developments of sudden excruciating pains.

Medicine has been much puzzled by the origin of this pain and has sought various ways to alleviate it. The hardening of certain of the important blood vessels of the heart (coronary arteries) with consequent narrowing of their caliber has been a pathologic condition, long associated with angina pectoris.

However, there have been a number of cases of angina pectoris in which the changes in these blood vessels have not been adequate to account for the pain suffered by the victim.

The more widely accepted of two theories advanced maintains that the pain is due to a cramp in the heart muscles. The second holds the pain due to interference with the blood supply in the heart.

Results of ingenious experiments by Sir Thomas Lewis of London favor the second of the two theories.

He constricted the arms near the shoulder so as to interfere with the flow of blood through it and then began exercising it by simple gripping movements.

He observed that in from 25 to 45 seconds, a pain developed in the arm, and became increasingly more intense until at about the seventh second further exercise was impossible.

The pain was continuous and did not increase to any extent as the arm was contracted, nor did it subside when the arm was relaxed.

The pain was not in the nature of a cramp, and it disappeared promptly when circulation was restored.

This experiment suggests that pain in angina pectoris is not due to heart cramp, but rather to the interference of blood circulation in the heart muscle.

The nitrite drugs used in angina pectoris are effective in that they relax the blood vessels, enabling more blood to flow.

GERMANY ASKS ARMISTICE

On October 6, 1918, the German Chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, addressed a note to President Wilson proposing a peace parley on the president's principles and asking for an armistice.

West of the Meuse, Americans clashed with the best German troops, the Yanks declaring the fighting was the bloodiest in their experience.

Germans fired the Bruges docks and withdrew stores from Ghent. In Asia Minor, the British occupied Zahieh and Rayak.

In the Culebra cut of the Panama Canal 2500 tons of explosives were used. The biggest single explosion was one in which 26 tons of dynamite were used.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—There can be no doubting that the republican chiefs meant what they said when, after Maine went democratic in its state elections, the word went out that a more intensified campaign for President Hoover's reelection would be waged.

The first of October saw heavy cannonading all along the G. O. P. front. Republican big guns were leaving no sector untouched. President Hoover sped to Des Moines to make the first of his campaign addresses. Vice President Curtis dipped into the south in the so-called border states, then pushed on for an extensive visit through the west.

Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury and one of the President's foremost political advisers, was on the road for a trip that will carry him to the Pacific coast and back.

The youthful Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war and another of the cabinet members who advise the President on political matters, was preparing for a whirlwind plane tour of Oklahoma which called for nine speeches in only two days.

Tireless Pat Hurley

Small wonder that Everett Sanders, chairman of the republican national committee, could chuckle at campaign headquarters and announce triumphantly:

"The 1932 campaign, both in organization work and in carrying the party message to the voters, is further advanced than at the same stage of any presidential contest I can remember."

The pace being set by Hurley perhaps is the most striking example of the republican big push. Hurley's ability to cover territory is uncanny. Almost daily one reads of his appearance before this or that republican rally—always in a different city, sometimes in a different section of the country.

Already he has won the name of "Pat, the tireless."

Nine Talks In Two Days

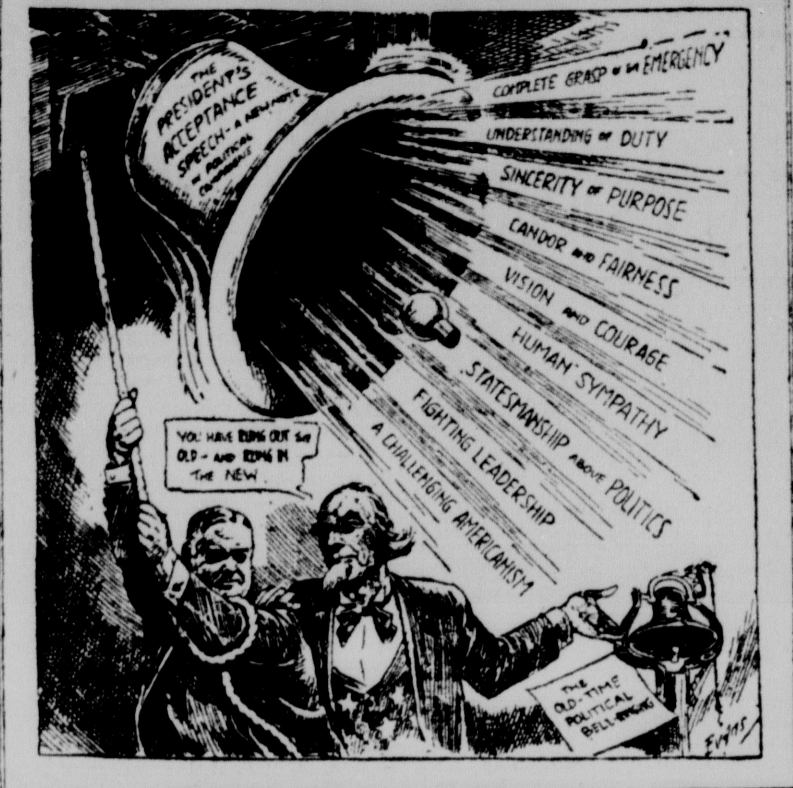

His attempt to jump his home state of Oklahoma, making nine speeches in two days, is illustrative of his activity. Five speeches the first day and four the second are a rather large order for any man.

Gossip has it that Hurley thought so, too. But with a plane he decided that he might be able to make it after all.

Perhaps another reason prompted Hurley to make the effort. He has the reputation earned at the very beginning of the political open season—of being the republicans' No. 1 "cheer leader." The democrats have tried a lot of fun "kidding" him about this—

Maybe the Hon. Pat wants to show the home folks a few things.

DO YOU KNOW?

DO YOU KNOW that there were over 500,000 more Republicans than Democrats?

This is the first time in years that the Democrats have had any competition in the primaries, and therefore this is the first time that they have had full strength of the Democratic vote.

DO YOU KNOW that the Democrats received only 29.12% of the vote cast outside of Cook County in the primaries?

DO YOU KNOW that the Republicans received 70.88% of the votes cast outside of Cook County?

DO YOU KNOW that Henry Horner, who was the Democratic organization candidate, received only 80,213 votes out of a possible 1,066,880 votes cast outside of Cook County?

DO YOU KNOW that Len Small received 273,283 votes out of a possible 1,066,880 votes, which is 25.55% of the total votes cast outside of Cook County?

DO YOU KNOW that Len Small received 3 1/2 times as many votes as Horner received outside of Cook County?

DO YOU KNOW that the Republicans had 5 major candidates in the race, while the Democrats had only 3?

DO YOU KNOW that Henry Horner was the Democratic candidate, and was supported by the majority of the Democratic organizations, and that these state organizations helped finance his campaign?

DO YOU KNOW that Len Small's downstate campaign was carried on through his friends without the help of any political organization or financial aid?

DO YOU KNOW that Len Small's plurality was 84,461 votes over that of Henry Horner in the state, and in view of the fact, that the Democrats had only 3 major candidates, while the Republicans had 5?

DO YOU KNOW that there were 53,000 more Republicans votes cast in Cook County, than Democratic votes?

DO YOU KNOW that the Democrats received only 37.80% of the total votes cast in the entire state?

N. B. It is occasionally believed by Chicagoans that Horner's failure downstate is accredited to the fact that downstate is the Republican stronghold, yet we find that Horner barely received 25% of the total downstate Democratic votes that is to say that 75% of the 310,746 loyal downstate Democratic voters, voted against Henry Horner.

'F. D.' FAILED TO GET ENDORSEMENT OF FED. OF LABOR

Laboring Men Realized Jobs More Important To Them Than Beer

By Stenton

Chicago, Ill.—The inside story of how Franklin Roosevelt tried to get an endorsement from the Volstead Modification Committee of the American Federation of Labor—and how it failed—is revealed today by William L. Hutchison, general president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and director of the Labor Bureau of the Republican National Committee here, John Sullivan, of the New York Federation of Labor, who has served Roosevelt in various capacities, asked for the endorsement. In reply, Michael J. Flynn, of Boston, representing 32 of the 60-odd unions belonging to the committee, served notice that, if Roosevelt were endorsed, his group would withdraw from the anti-Volstead organization. The jobs and the welfare of his people depended, he said, upon the maintenance and strengthening of the tariff which Roosevelt is pledged to destroy. Jobs to them, he said, are more important than beer. Much as they would like beer, jobs came first.

The editor of the Democratic Campaign Book has a remarkably short memory. In an article on Postoffice Jack Garner, he says: "Mr. Garner threw himself enthusiastically into the fight for Alfred E. Smith for President after the Houston Convention in 1928. x x x Garner never counted the cost. x x x Regardless of the possible consequences to himself, regardless of how he might be ruining his political future, he gave every ounce of his energy to the battle."

A search of the records show Garner delivered three speeches in Texas. The most important, delivered in San Antonio, was worth but two inches of space in the leading newspaper of the city. Garner controls his district—the 15th congressional—so absolutely that no one bothered to run against him in 1928. Yet Smith lost Uvalde—Garner's home county—by 1224 to 747. In the entire district, overwhelmingly democratic normally, Smith won by less than 1400 votes. More than 17,000 voters, after the "enthusiastic fight," Postoffice Jack made for Al Smith, voted the republican ticket. Smith was the original "forgotten man."

Roosevelt's Get-Broke-Quick plan, in which he proposes to bring back prosperity by bankrupting the employer, the working man and the farmer through throwing open these United States for the dumping of cheap foreign goods, on tariff terms to be decided by Europe, is drawing more comment from visitors to Republican National Committee headquarters than any one subject. Leaders from every state report that farmers, working men and employers alike are awakening to the perils involved in the visionary, impractical ideas of the Hyde Park landlord, whose boasted first hand knowledge of farming is limited to fancy crops in ten acre lots. There likewise is a growing revolt against his proposition to scrap the flexible feature of the Republican tariff law and put all tariff rate making back in Congress, to be a continual political football.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and mope and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a trunk, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. Buy the best ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. THAT these are competitive times.

In modern business, it is invariably the concern that advertises who gets the business.

The concern who keeps their business constantly before the people is the concern that reaps the reward of such progressiveness.

Today is the age of publicity, and the public pays much attention to this most important branch of modern business.

To hold the attention of the buying public is the first principle of advertising.

Advertising should be given earnest attention. Ads should be attractive. They should show merchandise or service of real value and should be backed up by business integrity.

As success in business is to a large extent dependent on public sentiment toward a business, truthful, persistent advertising must be used in order to attract favorable attention to it.

Business concerns who hesitate about advertising are hesitating on the road to better business. Don't hesitate!

Penitence And Prayer Week In Churches Of City

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6 PRAYER

Daily Text: "Lord teach us to pray." When ye pray say, Our Father who art in heaven. . . Ask, and it shall be given unto you; seek and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him? Luke 11:1-13.

Scripture References: Matt. 14:22-23; Luke 18:1-14; Acts 4:23-31; Matt. 26:36-46; Rom. 8:31-39; Ps. 63:1-7.

Meditation: We have talked about prayer. Now let us pray. The disciples after long companionship with Jesus discovered His secret. They said, "Teach us to pray." They did not say, "Teach us to write." They did say, "Teach us to pray." Prayer links our human helplessness to the divine sufficiency. The supreme tragedy is to try to do without God. "O Lord, in thee have I trusted. Let me never be confounded." Prayer clears the vision; quiets the nerves; defines duty; strengthens purpose; sweetens the spirit and fortifies the soul. Prayer relates the soul to the infinite resources of the Divine. Luther said, "Prayer and providence hinder no man on his journey. We should pray as if all depended upon God and work as though everything depended upon us." It is timely that every Christian should pray for the unemployed, the discouraged, the hungry and the sick. Each one should ask himself some questions about prayer during these days of bewilderment. Do I pray daily? Are my prayers selfish? What are the burdens and concerns of my prayers?

Prayer: Father of our spirits, we lift our hearts to Thee. At the threshold of our petition we cry, "Not my will but Thine be done!" Thou alone knowest our need. May we bow expectantly before Thee, hushing our own eager importunity and waiting for Thee to answer in Thine own way. Talk with us Lord, Thyself reveal; so we shall change eyes with Thee and see light in Thy light. Amen.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Lift not up your horn on high; speak not with a stiff neck.—Psalms, 75:5.

Arrogance is the obstruction of wisdom.—Bion.

A BOOK A DAY

If you like the hard-boiled, or neo-Hemingway, school of writers you probably will enjoy "Summer Is Ended," by John Herrmann, very much.

Here is a novel right in that tradition. Close-clipped, unadorned and straightforward, it tells the story of a girl from a small Michigan city, who loves a man, lets him get out of her firm clutches, and finally, in the last chapter, gets him again—only to find at the last that her deep desire to become the mother of a large family can never be realized because of an indiscretion she committed during the time when it looked as if she had lost the man for good.

All of this, you see, is pretty tragic; and my only objection to it is that the author has seemed to reach out and drag in his tragedy by the heels. You don't feel, in other words, that the girl's tragedy was inevitable; instead you feel that the author put it in because he wanted his book to be properly grim and heartrending.

And yet, for all that, the book is a good one. Mr. Herrmann has succeeded in making his characters very real, especially the girl herself. While you're reading you live her life. You understand how she feels, you suffer and rejoice with her, by turns; and for all its defects the book is well above the current average.

NEW CITY NAT'L. BANK OPENS IN CHICAGO TODAY

Gen. Charles G. Dawes Is Head Of Larger Institution

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The City National Bank & Trust Company, with Gen. Charles G. Dawes as chairman of the board, opened for business today taking over the deposits and liabilities and banking business of the Central Republic Bank & Trust Company.

The Central Republic will continue to operate its trust and real estate departments and its investment affiliate.

The new bank, sharing the same quarters with the Central Republic although an entirely separate corporate entity, has $4,000,000 paid in capital and $1,000,000 surplus.

Dawes retired from the chairmanship of the bank that he founded 30 years ago as the Central Trust Company of Illinois to assume the chairmanship of the new national bank.

Philip R. Clarke quit the presidency of Central Republic to become president of the City National, and Joseph E. Otis, co-chairman of Central Republic, succeeds both Dawes and Clarke as chairman and president of the Central Republic Bank & Trust Company.

Purpose Well Known

The purpose of Dawes to form a new bank with added capital, taking over the banking business of the Central Republic bank, was made known several weeks ago.

At this time the Central Republic had obtained authorization of a $90,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, only about half of which was utilized by the bank.

In a statement accompanying the announcement of the new bank, it was explained that declining deposits had made it increasingly difficult to meet fixed rental obligations and other charges, and continued operating losses "could only result ultimately in forced liquidation. This would have meant a sacrifice of the bank's assets."

During the early part of the period of depression, Dawes had been abroad as Ambassador to Britain and temporarily retired from bank activity. Several months ago, however, he quit politics to return and plunge into the reorganization of the bank.

Board of Directors

Directors of the new bank are: Donald S. Boynton, Pickands, Mather & Co.; Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil Company; Charles S. Dewey, vice-president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company; George B. Dryden, president of the Dryden Rubber Company; George F. Getz, chairman of the board of the Globe Bank Co.; John Goodridge of the Walling estate; Charles B. Goodspeed, manufacturer.

Harry B. Hurd, of Pam & Hurd, lawyers; James S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Building Co.; Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News; Theodore W. Robinson, manufacturer; Elisha Walker, capitalist; Kawleigh Warner, vice-president and treasurer of the Pure Oil Co.; Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The new bank takes over the deposit liabilities of the old one, including its commercial, savings and checking-savings accounts. The "red tape" will be involved, the bank announced, because customers will continue to use the same pass-books and check forms through the same tellers as in the past, transfer of accounts is entirely automatic, a statement explained.

The 25 to 34 Age Group

Tuberculosis, accidents and heart disease are the three outstanding enemies of life to people in the 25 to 34 age group. These three hazards account for one-half of all mortality in that group.

Tuberculosis is not only the greatest single health risk of people in the 25 to 34 age group but people of this age are more liable than any others to a fatal attack.

Risks to health and life from the four main hazards are by no means equally great to each sex. Males are involved in six fatal accidents to each one among females, while heart disease and tuberculosis account for 16 deaths among males to 7 among females in the 25 to 34 age group. Cancer, on the other hand, is twice as frequent among females as males and nephritis causes a higher death rate among women than men.

The Middle Age—35 to 44 Years

Danger to life for this age group is about equally divided between heart disease, violence and tuberculosis. These three head the list of hazards in the order named, with cancer appearing as an undisputed fourth. Then comes nephritis which ranks well among the more important dangers. These four hazards account for considerably more than one-half of all mortality in this age group.

Tuberculosis is less prevalent among females in the 25 to 34 than in the 20 to 24 age group. After age 25 tuberculosis declines rather steadily as a cause of death among females, but from age 30 onward it becomes a more and more frequent cause of death among males until age 50, especially among city people.

Only One Kind Of Aerial Game Safe

Los Angeles, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The aerial game is fine business in football, opines Coach Howard Jones, but outside Boyard Field on the University of Southern California campus, it's all off.

That is what Orville Mohler and Captain Tay Brown, two of the Trojans' best players, were emphatically informed today by the head man, after their close scrape with death or injury at San Bernardino yesterday, when the airplane Mohler was piloting crashed from an altitude of 150 feet.

Mohler, who is a licensed pilot and a senior in aeronautic engineering at Southern California, figured he might get in a little laboratory work by keeping a speaking engagement at the San Bernardino Valley Union Junior College via the air. The quarter-back and Brown, a tackle, kept the engagement, but almost missed regular afternoon practice.

TAMMANY READY FOR BIG FIGHT TO NAME MAYOR

However Courts May Upset Plans For Convention Tonight

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The gleam of tomahawks in and out of the Tammany wigwag set political scalp tingle today as Democrats prepared to meet in a vast pow-wow tonight to pick a candidate for Mayor of New York City.

There were many reports as the huge melange that is New York politics bubbled furiously. The Herald-Tribune was informed that former Mayor James J. Walker, riding the high seas homeward from Europe, probably would decline nomination on the grounds of poor health.

The Daily News said that Alfred E. Smith, who has donned his brown derby and fighting demeanor, was determined to put a "coupe de grace" to any mayoralty comeback by Walker, and that in this enterprise Smith would have the backing of Governor Roosevelt and Lieut. Gov. Lehman.

Rumblings In Bronx

Rumblings, too, were heard in the Bronx, home of Mayor Joseph V. McKee, a Scot with an economy program. He became mayor when Walker resigned with the announcement he would look to the people for vindication from charges of unfitness.

McKee, who contends that under the law there should be no election next month and that he should serve until 1934, predicted a court battle to contest the validity of any mayoral nomination made at the city convention tonight. He contends the election law requires such a nomination be filed not later than October 4.

Court May Decide

The Times said there was every indication that the Bronx group of delegates, 7,000 strong, would remain away from the convention. There was uncertainty even that the assembly would nominate any one, for the Court of Appeals, highest state court, was expected to rule late this afternoon on the question whether an election should be held this year or next.

But Tammany Hall went forward with plans for the gathering. More than 32,000 delegates were summoned to assemble in Madison Square Garden.

There was no indication whether John F. Curry, sparse, graying, "Big Chief" of Tammany Hall, would hold out for the nomination of Walker.

"Accident" Not Up To Advance Notice

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The advance notices said there'd be an accident, and a goodly crowd was on hand.

Traffic Policeman H. F. Skinner drove one way down the street in his auto at 20 miles an hour. From the opposite direction at the same speed came Traffic Policeman H. B. Mohler.

In the interests of safety, they were to crash—hard. Delegates to the National Safety Congress lined the street, ready to gasp at this demonstration arranged for their benefit by the metropolitan police.

There was a slight bump and the soft whistle of escaping air as the two cars swerved and came casually to a standstill, side by side.

Casualties were one flat tire and a dented fender. There was no explanation of why the machines did not smack head long as scheduled. But the police investigated, as planned, in their most efficient manner, and turned in the right kind of a report.

ROOSEVELT NOW GIVES TIME TO STATE BUSINESS

Devotes Brief Interlude In His Campaign To His Office

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(AP)—A brief interlude of state business is occupying Governor Roosevelt's attention before he sets forth on the last big drive in his campaign for the presidency.

Pleased at the outcome of what his staff feels was the last big problem of his campaign, the nomination of Herbert H. Lehman for Governor, Roosevelt today was making rapid progress with the pile of correspondence and other state matters that accumulated during his recent western trip.

He was preparing also to receive his running mate, John N. Garner, who is expected to visit Albany this week.

Roosevelt took time out yesterday long enough to see newspaper men and tell them he had not decided whether he would ask Alfred E. Smith to speak in his behalf in his campaign for the presidency.

The Democratic nominee is considering his plans for the remainder of the campaign, is thinking of leaving October 17 for a swing through Baltimore and Atlanta to St. Louis, to be followed up by a final motor trip into New England.

CLARK GRIFFITH MAY AGAIN BOSS PENNANT CHASERS

Says He'll Manage Senators If He Cannot Get Man He Wants

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Clark Griffith—the "Old Fox" who piloted the Washington Senators from 1912 to 1920—may appear next year in the dual role of owner and manager of the Capital's American League baseball team.

It depends, Griffith said last night, on whether he can get the man he wants to succeed Walter Johnson, let out this week after four years as manager.

Johnson's elimination started the usual burst of speculation over who would be the next boss. Asked about filling the managerial shoes himself, Griffith said: "Only if I am unable to find the man I want, will I take over the management myself."

Although Griffith declined to comment further there was considerable discussion of the possibility that he might take over the managerial duties as an economy move.

Interest of Capital fans was divided between speculation over Johnson's successor and where the "Big Train" their idol, would go. Persistent reports he might become manager of the Baltimore Orioles in the International League, apparently were unfounded, as Charles H. Knapp, President of that club, said in Baltimore he was not considering him.

Rumors revolving about the selection of a player manager for Washington, centered on Joe Judge, veteran first baseman; Sam Rice, long an outfielder and young Joe Cronin, dynamic shortstop.

Talk of Harris

The name of Stanley "Bucky" Harris, now manager of the Detroit Tigers in the American League and the only manager to take Washington into a world series, also entered prominently. He piloted the team into the series in 1924 and 1925, going out at the end of the 1928 season.

Griffith, who came to Washington as manager in 1912, built up a reputation as a smart swapper and developer of material. He retired from an active role in 1920, when he had acquired a controlling interest in the team.

SEE HOPE FOR RELIEF ACTION IN LEGISLATURE

House Adjourns For a Week: Senate Moved For Action

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The legislature held a short session meagerly attended today prior to adjournment until next Thursday to crystallize hope of them enacting a program for unemployment financial aid.

The date was selected because next Tuesday is registration day in Cook county for the November election, while Wednesday is a legal holiday in the whole state.

When the members of the House of Representatives return their special order of business will be three bills which they defeated yesterday but which opposing factions have been partly pledged to support.

They were the Tice bill authorizing counties to tax retail sales of everything except foodstuffs, the Childers bill allowing counties to divert their share of gasoline taxes for poor relief, and the Meents Senate bill giving counties power to issue bonds for relief, retiring them by retail taxes on sales or gasoline.

The House was at the point of following the Senate into adjournment until after the elections when leaders appealed for harmony and warned of the danger of allowing current relief funds to be used up.

Speaker Dave Shanahan of Chicago, Homer J. Tice of Decatur, Howard L. Doyle of Greenview and Richard J. Lyons of Mundelein asked for more careful consideration of relief proposals. Members who voted against the three key bills were persuaded to move for reconsideration thereby reviving them upon the calendar.

Oak Ridge Team To End Season Sunday

The Oak Ridge baseball team will bring to a close another very successful season next Sunday afternoon on their home diamond with the Rockford Colored Sox, furnishing the opposition. Manager Raymond Henley, "Paddy" McDonald, "Smoky Joe" Miller, Carroll Reilly and Kehert, members of the W. B. Johnson shoe company team of this city during the past season will appear in the Oak Ridge lineup.

HORNER REALLY BENEFITTED FROM SALARY INCREASE

While Len Small Refused To Let Legislature Boost His Pay

On the Caravan Tour, Springfield—My opponent, Judge Horner, blames me for the increase in the expense of state government during my administration, declared former Governor Len Small before an audience that crowded the State Arsenal to the doors here on the caravan tour of the Republican candidates for state offices. "Let him tell all the facts," continued the former chief executive. "During my term of office, salaries of employees throughout the state were raised by action of the General Assembly, including the salary of Judge Horner. Judge Horner's salary was raised from $10,000 a year to $15,000 a year. It still remains at $15,000 a year. As for my own salary, I received as Governor, $12,000 a year, a sum fixed before I took office. I absolutely refused to permit my own salary to be raised so long as I occupied the office of chief administrator of the people's business and it was not raised."

"During my administration, also," continued the former Governor, "in spite of the increase in governmental expenses of the state, as was true of every other government in the country, I reduced the state tax rate to 30 cents and the balance in the state treasury was increased from $15,000,000 in 1921 to $40,000,000 in 1929 during the greatest construction program in the history of Illinois. In view of the raise in Judge Horner's salary from $10,000 a year to $15,000 a year while it still remains, my prevention of the raise of my own salary, the lowering of the tax rate and the increase in the treasury balance under my administration, I am quite willing to leave it to the judgment of the people of Illinois as to who profited most of the deal; Judge Horner, or the people who pay his salary."

The loud applause that greeted the stinging rebuke of the former Governor showed that the shot went home. It came with even greater force in view of the continued refusal of Judge Horner to resign from one office while running for another in spite of the demand of members of his own and other parties that he do so.

SMALL SOUNDS WARNING
Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 6 — Sounding a solemn warning against the dangers of chain banking and declaring for stronger banking law, Len Small, Republican nominee for governor, with other candidates on the G. O. P. state ticket, brought their campaign into eastern-south-central Illinois today. Mr. Small is a banker himself and his views on banking were regarded as particularly important in relation to his candidacy for governor. Following an afternoon meeting at Effingham, the Republican state candidates scattered to thirteen towns in this section of the state for mass meetings tonight. In his speeches Mr. Small said:

"Widespread hardship has been caused by the closing of banks. The life savers of many people have been swept away. Homes have been endangered, families have been reduced virtually to starvation. This condition should not exist in a great country such as ours. Not only should every dishonest banker who deliberately violates the banking laws be punished for his wrongs, but the banking laws should be strengthened in every way. Particularly so that the double liability which the Constitution of our state imposes upon bank stockholders can be collected under any and all circumstances."

Against Chain Banks
"The closing of the banks was not all due to unsound banking. Many of the banks were forced to close by a vast combination of capital and wealth which intends, by breaking every one, to gain control of the banking system through chain banks; to bulldoze labor into accepting terms that may be dictated to it; to compel the farmer to work his land as if he were a vassal or serf."

"I cannot protest too vigorously, nor warn you too solemnly against the danger of chain banking. If it were permitted, it would place the control of wealth and industry in the hands of a few men in higher positions. Ex-President Calvin Coolidge made the following statement, which I believe to be a sound and timely warning:

"If monopolies were permitted, a few men in key positions would soon control our economic and probably our political opportunities. Open opportunity would be gone. About the only remedy would be a revolution. The alternative would be a rigorous and blighting government control."

"To the end that monopolistic schemes of the financial interests may be defeated, the savings of the people protected and prosperity restored, I urge legislation to assure the collection of stockholders' liability. I also urge a vigorous and unrelenting opposition to chain banking, or any scheme which is its equivalent. In that connection, the laws should be strengthened to protect the needy borrower against the gouging of the loan shark."

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, OCT. 6, 1932

THE PLANETARY configurations today point to a general interest in business affairs, chiefly along economic lines. Some criticism of government officials for heavy expenditures is pressed, according to Astrology. It is not a good day to ask for a raise in salary. Those seeking employment should deal very tactfully with superiors.

Business conditions in the middle west are likely to move slowly for the rest of the year. Astrologers say, those who are looking for business revivals should expect them to appear slowly and gradually after the third and last wave of the depression which is expected to end November 20th of this year. While the planets will at this time, be separated from the place which they occupied during the World's greatest depression, it should be understood that it will take many months for certain types of people and industries to recover from the effects of so great a crisis. It is the opinion of the seers that certain lines including the real estate business, may require two or three years to come back fully to normal conditions.

During the early part of the afternoon, those who proceed wisely can gain through speculation in stocks and shares with large companies, dealing with oils, chemicals, food or clothing.

The afternoon hours are not lucky for signing papers, contracts or the handling of important business affairs, and according to astrology, there is a tendency for people to be erratic and irresponsible which tendency can be a detriment especially to those who travel.

The rest of the day brings a critical condition for those in authority. Employers may experience considerable difficulty. It is prophesied that some small scandal may come from Hollywood today. The night hours show up adversely for traffic with liability of accident from careless judgment.

Children born on this day will do well working under the direction of others and may succeed best

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatic pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest cold by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it stings, and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "dead" or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic baumes, mostly cheap imitations of Baume Bengue. That is why they are ineffective. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real relief.

ESKIMOS MAKE ICE CREAM!

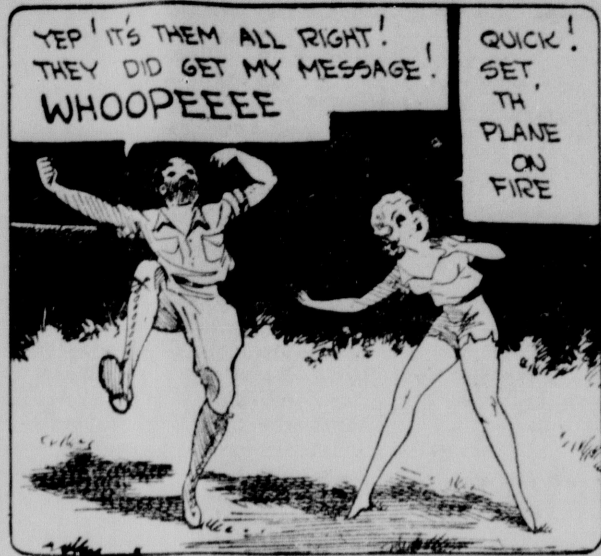

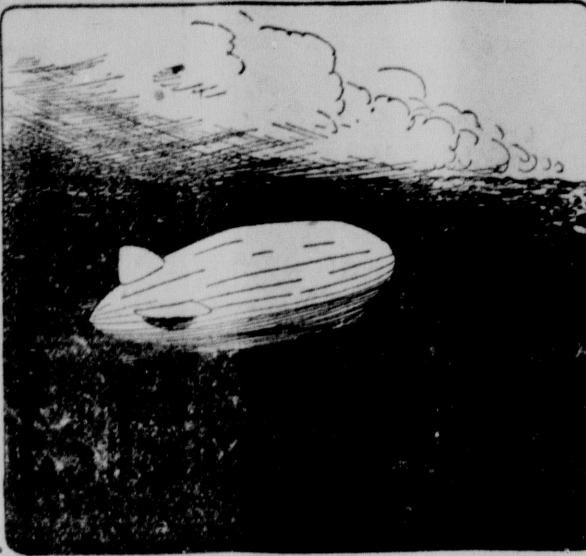

THE RECIPE IS VERY SIMPLE — FISH OIL, SNOW AND SUGAR, MIXED.

Watered milk is taboo in high-grade dairy circles, but there is no law against letting bossie drink all the water she wants before the milk reaches the pail. Recent tests at experiment stations show that in order to be good milk producers, cows must have access to plenty of water. Cows that had water before them all the time drank 10 times each day and consumed 18.37 per cent more water and produced 12.12 more fat than cows that had their thirsts only partially quenched.

The doctor nodded. "Yes, but we have to keep that timber boss away from your father until I say the word."

"I'll see Swergin," Dona promised. "I'll be back tonight," she added.

"No hurry. Your father'll be fit as a river driver in a few days." The doctor went inside and closed the door.

Dona wandered down to the corals and watched Malloy rope and ride a wild horse. She waved her hat when he finally forced the snorting, pitching brute to give in to his will. Malloy grinned at her and turned the saddle horse over to one of the other men.

"Take him out and ride him. He's tame now," the corral boss ordered.

"I suppose you'd saddle the roan for me this morning?" Dona asked the question with a sparkle in her eyes.

Malloy nodded.

Dona looked at her wrist watch. It was 11 o'clock. She would have time for a gallop down the canyon before Dudley returned. "All right—saddle him," she smiled.

Malloy slipped a saddle on the roan and brought him to the gate. "Better watch him, Ma'am. He's pretty fresh," the cowboy warned.

Dona smiled disdainfully and leaped into the saddle. The roan shook his head and went off as though he had not had several days in which to get back his temper. They headed down the canyon at a brisk gallop.

She had gone perhaps a half mile when she discovered a rider trailing her and halted to wait for the man. He came up with her and pulled his horse to a walk.

"What do you want?" she demanded.

"Swergin's orders, Miss. I'm to ride along with you whenever you leave camp." The man seemed to enjoy Dona's evident flash of temper at his words.

"You might as well ride back and unsaddle. I go where I please."

"Sorry, Miss, but you are not to ride up on the mountain. Down here is all right." The fellow was of a dull type and seemed to be enjoying his present errand. Dona noted that he was not much at home in the saddle. He would be easy to lose if she chose.

Taking a different tack, she smiled. "Orders are orders. I suppose we'll both have to mind the big boss."

The man grinned, displaying broken front teeth. "Swergin runs things up here," he admitted.

"How long have you worked for him?" Dona asked by way of making talk.

"I was with Swergin before he came on this job," the man explained. "Him and me's been pals."

Dona smiled, more to herself than to the rider. "How far is it to Blind River?" she asked suddenly.

It would be great sport to give Swergin the slip and ride over the range. "A good two hour ride," the man answered.

The answer set Dona thinking. She wished she could ride the range just to show the big boss. She

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

STAN BALL accuses ASPER DELIO, lumber king, of crooked practice and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check for entire interests. Delio says he will prevent it in person.

Upon leaving Delio's office Ball saves DONA, Asper's daughter, from kidnapping. Delio's name he tells her he is STANLEY BLACK and slips away.

DUDLEY WYNTER'S loves DONA. He agrees to make Asper give up the wild idea of going to Three Rivers and running Ball off the company property. Dona goes with him. They find a manhunt in progress with Ball as the objective. Asper is badly wounded from ambush but cannot be kept in bed. Dudley produces a marriage license that they had been prevented from using by Dona's being unsure of herself.

They tell Asper they are married. Ball overhears this announcement, while in for food. He is caught by SWERGIN, Asper's timber boss, who has been a leading figure in the hunt.

DUDLEY taken to a cabin while Swergin goes out to gather a mob for a lynching. He surprises his captor and escapes. A wild hunt takes place. Dona goes down to the horse corral to wait the return of the bandit. The men bring in their prey, a timber boss. That night Dudley insists on Dona marrying him in the next day. She agrees to do it the next day.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

DONA sat with her father for an hour. He was plainly agitated by Swergin's report but making an effort to conceal his feelings. She tried to keep from thinking of the ride she had promised to take that afternoon. She thought of Ball and wondered if Swergin and his men would ever be successful.

Finally Asper dropped off to sleep, snoring softly. His age was against him and he had to give in and rest though he had tried to keep awake. Dona stole softly from the room. She met the doctor at the door and he returned to the porch with her.

"Will it be all right for me to be away this afternoon?" she asked anxiously.

The doctor nodded. "Yes, but we have to keep that timber boss away from your father until I say the word."

"I'll see Swergin," Dona promised. "I'll be back tonight," she added.

The evening was indeed a success, a full house greeted the children, the children did well, much credit is due them, and their teacher for the program so well rendered. At this time the secretary, Mrs. Elmer Whitney read the minutes of the last meeting thus reminding the members on which committee they are to work this year, she also explained why the entertainment, the eight grade children sponsored the program assisted by the other grades, it being the desire of the eighth grade pupils to leave a gift to the school in memory of the class and to the school they love so well, and in getting it at the beginning of the school year they can all enjoy the gift this year, the president then announced the next P. AMATEUR BOXERS MEET IN FINALS TOMORROW NIGHT

Preliminaries At Dixon Athletic Club Wednesday Evening

Tomorrow evening in the Suter building on Ottawa Avenue the finals of the Rock River Valley A. A. U. championships will go on at 8:30 o'clock. Eight good bouts are scheduled for the night's entertainment in the new indoor arena.

Fans have been clamoring for a McReynolds-Becker scrap and now it is all set. Everett Thane, winner in his 147 pound fight, forfeited to McReynolds, which leaves the Dixon boy matched with Becker for the finals. The Peorian found all he could handle last night in Clark Rousch, who toppled the finalist in the third round. McReynolds whipped Becker in a Maples bout during the summer but in the last Rockford outdoor show the tables were turned. It was in the Rockford fight that McReynolds injured his left hand. Tomorrow will be his first start since the injury occurred.

Friday's finals will see "Killer" Hess of Dixon meeting Chuck Barroughs of Peoria in the 175-pound match. Hess drew a bye in last night's preliminaries while Barroughs triumphed over Lester Grube of Rochelle. Barroughs had Grube down for nine in the third. Delbert Lipton of Chillicothe mixes with Gilmor Deschaume of St. David for the 126-pound title. Al Yeager won over Lyle Klapprodt of Dixon and Pete Simiatis of Rockford to qualify for the finals, meeting Ralph Rafferta of St. David. A pair of heavyweights, from Peoria and Rockford, will fight for honors in that division, while Jack Smith and another 118 pounder vie in search of the light title.

Wednesday's Bouts
Starting the show Kid McLean of Peoria was awarded the decision over Harry Danner of Peoria. Coming back in the eighth bout, McLean lost to Del Lipton for the final chance. At 126 pounds Gilmor Deschaume of St. David lashed out a decision over Al Smith of Rockford. Smith was down for nine in the third round. Ralph Rafferta easily outclassed Joe A. Siogle of Peoria in the first 135 bout. At the same weight Al Yeager of Peoria knocked out Lyle Klapprodt of Dixon in the second round. It was the local boy's first appearance in the ring.

For a bloody encounter the 147-pound bout between Everett Thane Chillicothe and Nello Catalini of Rockford. The former lived up to his reputation by losing plenty of red corpuscles but won the bout. He later forfeited his semi-final fight, thereby leaving McReynolds and Becker to the honors.

In the next scrap Clark Rousch fought the best battle of his career and almost upset the dope. He caught Becker in the third and upset him. The blond Peoria boy, however, won the decision. Fighting at 175 pounds Chuck Barroughs decisively trimmed Lester Grube of Rochelle. The latter started in strong but Barroughs put him down for two counts in the second and nine in the final period. Then Lipton won his right to Friday's show by whipping McLean.

Perhaps the best of Wednesday's show was the Al Yeager-Pete Simiatis bout. Both are clever and ran hit, but Yeager pounded hard in the third and won the verdict. Simiatis was groggy in the third. Plans for a capacity crowd Friday are complete. This show will see some high-class material in action. The new auditorium is capable of accommodating a large audience and with the eight bouts scheduled Friday, it should be filled.

It was a rip-roaring fight and all that—the Schmeling-Walker thing. I mean—but certain aspects of the thing were decidedly collegiate.

Dempsey furnished an unexpected and astonishing Vassar note. The Old Man Mauler, called into the ring by toothless Joe Humphries, kissed the veteran announcer's hand when Joe held up the Dempsey mitten to introduce him with appropriate and flattering cracks.

Then — of all things — Dempsey walked over to Mickey Walker's corner and grasped Doctor Kearns' limp hand in his own strong, brown dukes and shook it heartily.

It was as if the captain of dear old Siwash had walked over, after his eleven had lost, 7 to 6, and put his arm about the shoulder of the skipper of the Hemingway Hurricanes (though there were tears in his eyes) and uttered his congratulations for having put up a splendid game, and said something about having deserved to win, and all that.

JUST PALS, AFTER ALL
Primo Carnera lumbered into the arena. The very large Venetian, you know, has been suing Schmeling for all the money he can think of, charging breach of contract. Carnera's agents have been attaching Schmeling's purses and causing all kinds of trouble.

Yet Primo rumbled across the creaking ring boards to Schmeling's corner and, with that wide, foolish grin, offered his ham of a hand to the German juggernaut. Schmeling smiled took Carnera's mitt and shook it with all the zest of the skipper of the Wellesley squash team meeting an old rival from Smith at a tea dance in the Back Bay district. (That's a ritzy part of Boston, Gus.)

The gentlemen of the press sat in pop-eyed astonishment at the fussing around. You could have knocked them over with a blocking halfback from Notre Dame.

cheer—for the players are to be known only by their numbers and not by their names.

Practice got under way yesterday, for the opening of the season Saturday when five teams representing as many cell houses will begin play in an intra-mural tournament.

The inmates have constructed a good gridiron and temporary stadium, with seats enough for 2,000 of the convict-spectators.

For a time Walter Nerstheimer, Assistant Warden, was worried about his prospects, but that's all over now.

"Last spring," he said, "after the Parole Board had graduated some of our best half backs, we were afraid that this year's squads would be pretty weak."

"However," the judges of the Criminal Courts have sent a number of our old stars back to us, and a number of new ones."

By WILLIAM S. LANGFORD
Secretary, National Football Rules Committee.

New York, Oct. 6 —(AP)—Prohibition against the use of the flying tackle and the flying block was adopted for the protection of the tackler and blocker, rather than of the opponents whom they were trying to bring down.

The new rule states: "It is illegal to use a flying tackle in which a player dives or throws his body through the air at the ball carrier. It is legal for the tackler to leave his feet at the instant he makes contact with the ball carrier."

The provisions with respect to blocking are similar.

If a player makes a flying block or a flying tackle, even though he fails to make contact with the opponent his team is penalized five yards from the spot of the foul, except in case the flying block or tackle is used against a player who is making or who has made a forward pass when the penalty is enforced from the point where the ball was put in play. This is the only instance in the rules where a penalty is imposed to prevent a player from doing injury to himself.

The only change in the rule governing the use of hands and arms by players on defense is that which further restricts these players from striking above the shoulders with the palms of the hands. Defensive players are permitted to use the palms of their hands above the shoulders of opponents only to push them out of the way in order to get at the ball or the player carrying it or to ward off interferers who are trying to block them.

Minnesota Friends Of Ubl Heartened

Minneapolis, Oct. 6 —(AP)—Friends of Myron Ubl, University of Minnesota athlete, were heartened today by reports of improvement in his condition, even though it was slight.

His physician, however, said that while the change was a favorable sign it was "not enough to give one too much hope" for Ubl, football player who was injured in practice and whose cold developed into pneumonia with complications to make his condition serious.

"GRAND OLD MAN" HAPPY AS TEAM STARTS TO YALE

Has Hopes Of Beating His Alma Mater In Game Saturday

Chicago, Oct. 6 —(AP)—A snow-thatched old warrior in his "dangerous seventies" packed his suitcase today, winked mischievously at his cronies and set out for the greatest adventure of his sporting life.

It was Amos Alonzo Stagg bound for New Haven, Conn., and a football tussle with his alma mater of 45 long years, Yale. With him was perhaps his best University of Chicago football team since 1924, a squad of 31 hustling huskies.

A lot of football glory has crowned the 70-year-old Stagg during his 41 years of coaching at Chicago, but never was he any happier than today as he gathered his forces for an invasion of Old Eli. Last year, when Yale honored him by coming to Chicago and then trounced his weak team, 27 to 0, Stagg knew he didn't have a chance. But this time it's different. He expects to return in triumph to his old stamping ground where he first arose to fame long before most of today's football coaches and heroes were born.

School spirit flared at Chicago, long dorman because of weak teams, flared of its highest point in eight years today. Instead of the customary yawn of disinterest, every student was excited, and thousands arranged to follow their grand old coach and grand young team to the station for the get-away. Only one disturbing note was heard. That was the last minute ruling that Cecil Storey, sophomore fullback of promise from Long Beach, Cal., was ineligible because of his studies. But the rest of the team was in splendid physical condition and ready to fight a last ditch battle.

The three shareholders of the Big Ten championship in 1931 also were ready for important engagements that will all but shove one or two of them out of the current title struggle Saturday. They were Michigan and Northwestern, which meet in the banner battle of the day at Ann Arbor; and Purdue, which tangles with the dangerous Minnesota Gophers at Minneapolis. Last minute preparations at Michigan and Northwestern indicated a wide open struggle in the wide open spaces—a lot of forward passes. Purdue was worried plenty over the Minnesota duel not only because of the power anticipated but the spirit engendered by the serious illness of Myron Ubl, injured Gopher quarterback. The Gophers are bound to play inspired football, the Boilermakers figure, because of Ubl.

Ubl's injury was the big topic of discussion in most Big Ten camps as they prepared for Saturday's games. Many coaches, afraid of practice injuries, cut scrimmages to a minimum.
